Machrie Moor - The Peated Arran Malt

On the west coast of the Isle of Arran lies a windswept and mystical peat bog called Machrie Moor. Bronze Age stone circles and standing stones are strewn across its barren, undulating terrain. One of the stone circles is known as Fingal's Cauldron Seat, where sits a stone with a carved hole. The legendary warrior giant Fingal is said to have tethered his favourite dog Bran to this stone. This peated expression of the Arran Single Malt perfectly captures the rugged beauty and lore of the landscape. Unleash the legend that is Machrie Moor.

Tasting Notes

Nose: Dried grass, peat smoke and hints of vanilla and tropical fruit.

Palate: Classic arran character of fresh pineapple and lemon skins. Biscuity, malty notes give depth.

Finish: Citrus fruits continue, with an extra punch of peat smoke on the long finish.
